“ Alan was a student of mine in Applied Reading at the William D. Ford Career-Tech Center in or around 2015-16. Later, I hired him to do work on my car. As a teacher, I have met many students over the course of my career, but very few make as great an impression on me as Alan did. It was immediately obvious that he was a kind and caring person who often reached out to help others in our class. I don't see that too often. He also livened up the class by sharing his philosophical ideas, something that made us all happy to know him. His was a positive and uplifting soul. I last spoke with Alan on 12/20/17 about possible work on my car, but I ended up taking it to the dealership instead since the problem was under warranty. Alan always immediately responded to my texts and calls, and that provided me with a sense of security knowing he could advise me on car problems. I only found out about his death today when I again tried to call him about a car repair. I am devastated to know that he is no longer with us. My sympathies are with his friends and family. I know your hearts are broken. I will always keep Alan's memory in my heart.

“ Alan was such a gentle guy and always made ne feel welcomed. He was one of the most intelligent, wise, and genuine, persons I've ever met. While being introverted when you got to know him, he was a great conversationalist- great listener and quite humorous. He loved talking about God and the books he read especially the Bible, Desire of Ages, and Great controversy. He was reticent at times but when he spoke he had tremendous substance, thoughtful, and possessed clarity on difficult subjects. Many times talking in cars driving to Bible studies or picking up car parts was such an enjoyable time. Definitely going to miss our conversations! Rest in peace bro until that last trump sounds and our Saviour takes us home.

“ So saddened to hear this. Alan preached for me at the Monroe church several times. What a wonderful Christian young man. Words cannot adequately express the sorrow for him and his family that we feel. It was good to have met him. He truly loved the Lord and sought to serve him. The Lord will meet you Alan on the resurrection day with open arms. Until then we will wait. God bless your family.
