“ Indomitable, awesome Alice! It was with such deep sadness that our family received the news of her death. But my memories of her will always be of her strength, generosity and humor. She was a warrior! As Cheryl's college basketball coach at Aquinas College, I both heard about and observed her parenting. She loved her kids so fiercely, supported them through the difficult times, but she also had high expectations and made them accountable to be good people. She was tough in the best way. And she passed that down to Cheryl, and I am sure, all her children. One small example: one day at an Aquinas practice, Cheryl was being particularly lazy and I told her to leave in no uncertain terms. She refused and proceeded to work harder than ever and then to apologize after practice. That is a reflection of good parenting. Cheryl became a lifetime friend and demonstrates the kindness, work ethic and generosity Alice role-modeled so consistently. Her spirit lives on.
