“ Anna Catherine Kabacinski

“ Sending our sincere condolences and deepest sympathy to the family of Anna Catherine Staniewicz Kabacinski in the loss of a dear and wonderful mother, grandmother, and kind soul. While our experiences shared with Anna started about 40 years ago, when my sister Karen married into the Kabacinski family, it was later in Anna's life when the opportunities arose to grow closer to Anna. What I always noted, was her inquisitiveness about the world around her, and how she expressed this by “keeping up” with the news through newspapers and television, and by reading books on a variety of topics. Her inquisitiveness led her to mastering many arts and crafts during her lifetime, learning about them on the Internet when she was in her 80s, a time of life when many people discard the option of learning something new, especially when it requires learning new technology. The term “The Greatest Generation” has been popularized to reflect the perseverance and determination of Anna's generation: those who survived the deprivations of the Great Depression and the hardships and despair of World War II, only to then humbly work hard and diligently with great hope to make our country the greatest success in history. With Anna's passing, your family endures the great loss of a dearly loved Mother and Grandmother, we lose a sweet friend, and we all lose yet another of The Greatest Generation, an American survivor with a heart of gold.

Sending you love, Larry Leiper and Mary Parker
