“ My thoughts and prayers go out today to tge Randolph family. It's been many years since I was blessed to have this man in my life. Way back then everyone called me by my nicknamw Sis but not Big Carson. He had his own name for me, his name for me was Suzy Q. I never new why and never will.

“ We knew Carson for only a short time but he was such a wonderful neighbor. My last memory is of our standing at our side doors waving to each other as we let our dogs out to play. Our thoughts and prayers go out to Donna and the family. We wish you happiness and peace in your next great adventure Carson!

“ Carson always made it a point to let me know I reminded him of the musician Arlo Guthrie. I can honestly say that he had a major influence in the music that like to this day. He was always fixing VCR's and sitting with us at the kitchen table laughing about the craziest things. We were just teenagers but he could always find something in common to share with us. I learned a lot at that table just listening and will never forget you.

“ I first met Carson in the early 70s and knew at that point in time that we would be longtime friends, his love for music and let tell you his guitar playing was superb. He always had a smile on his face and you could never forget that trademark laugh of, he was a true inspiration for many to some a hero and to most a friend. I will always remember the kindness he shown to others even while he was suffering, so my friend breathe easy and no pain will you feel anymore and the times we had will be as memories until on knock apound your door! “ I will forever remember Carson as a uniquely talented guitarist and a very special friend. Growing up together in the late 60's and early 70's music scene, we learned how to be a band and so much more. I believe Carson to be the most naturally talented guitar player I ever met. His love for his wife and family always impressed me and moved me. In many ways he was larger than life and I am blessed for the experience of his friendship. -- Terry Crouson
