“ When Cathy and I were growing up, and still pretty young, we shared one of the upstairs bedrooms of a Cape Cod-style house near Ferguson, MO. This was before she, as the oldest by two and a half years, was able to move into the other room, which was way cooler than mine. I remember one night in particular that the twin beds were placed along the outside wall, next to the window (because it was a warm night) and we were head to head. That night, we were giggling as usual, trying to be quiet so daddy wouldn't come up the stairs and tell us to go to sleep, and we were waiting and waiting, and looking out into the night, hoping and praying that Peter Pan would fly through our window. He didn't, but it didn't matter because it became one of our best shared memories. She was a great big sister and I will miss her.

“ One of my favorite memories was before I left to go to Army basic training and came home with my nearly knee length hair cut to chin length (without warning her) and upon seeing it, she started hyperventilating, "You didn't... you didn't..." but dang it if I was going to deal with all that hair while training to become a soldier. She begrudgingly accepted that reason once she calmed down. Very begrudgingly lol
