“ "Nana's Song"

*She isn't in the bedroom, she's nowhere int the home, she's never in the kitchen, can't reach her on the phone.
She didn't leave to party with her kids, her kin and friends, she won't be laughing through the door with anecdotes and grins.
She isn't with her Layla, her Maggie or her Jax,
or drinking with my noisy sisters, trying to relax.
She's not out seeing Mia, or Natalie or Jase, or taking Bo Bo to the vets; she isn't in a "place".
She's not with Maddie either, she won't be coming home,
she watches them with Papa now, and helps me cry alone.
That little box of ashes, could that really be my wife?
Or maybe this is all a dream; I'll wake up to my life.
Our golden hearted country girl, our Angel on this Earth,
her body had to die, they say, to give her spirit birth.
But right now at this moment, I'm recovering, I think,
still gasping for a breath of air, and leaning on this sink.
Forgot my good inhaler; out of reach, I couldn't take it,
and for a minute there I really thought I wouldn't make it,
just couldn't catch my breath and almost cried myself to death.*

“ My heart goes out to all Debs loved ones. Although I didn't spend a lot of time with her, I know from the impact she had on my brother Jim's life what an amazing person she was. Loving, generous and open hearted, never afraid to declare her love !
I pray wonderful memories will help to comfort all. ❤️💕

“ Debbie brought a sweet, gentle presence with her always. She loved her family, her pets, nature. Her smile could light up a room. The snow sparkled a bit brighter this morning. I was honored to call her a friend.

“ When I met Deb we hit it off right away and became fast friends. But over a short period of time we became more than that. As Debbie said to me one day: I love you guys like sisters. Yes, all of us LeBoeuf girls were here sisters!.....We will always have that connectedness with her.

I miss our “girls weekends” at her house and meeting her for lunch to catch up.

I miss us watching the birds out her kitchen window and the squirrels trying to get at it!

I miss us “venting” to each other over the phone...and saying how lucky we are to have each other...

I miss her smile and how she would just beam with joy over her grandkids. They were her ❤️. Deb had the biggest heart of anyone I ever met.

I miss her...and always will.
