“ I first met Mrs. Peters on a Friday night in September 1964. Yes, Mrs. Peters. I never once in all these years called her Dorothy. And her husband was always Mr. Peters. I was at their house hundreds of times, ate their food (never finish the bag of potato chips), played poker or pinochle there (usually lost), Mr. P helped me get a job when I returned from the army, I worked with Phil, dated (briefly) Kathy (Dottie fortunately for her was too young), traveled with son Paul and Marlene, and loved them all. I was scolded by both Mr. and Mrs., but it was usually Mrs., for leading Phil astray. It was only fair as Phil received equal treatment from my mom. Same episode but in this version Phil led me astray. It was also fair because we were both almost always guilty. We were very guilty the time Mr. P did NOT provide the bail money we requested. Yeah, a lesson learned.

It's not habit, it's respect and reverence, when I say "Mrs. Peters please say 'Hi' to Mr. Peters for me."

“ I was lucky enough to do manicures for Dorothy. Oh she was a great story teller, really take me back in time with her. What a full life and beautiful family she created. Planting in spring, winning bowling trophies, accomplished artist, traveling to visit her children /grandchildren with her adoring husband. I got to know her kitties, always curious about the ritual of manicuring. Such strong, naturally beautiful nails Dorothy. Peace and Love to you. E

“ Dorothy Peters was a sweet, kind and loving person. We spent many Thanksgivings together at the Bloom household. Sharing the holiday with Dorothy and Paul was always nice. They loved my pumpkin pie. Dorothy will certainly be missed.
