“ Every single day I can always count on a call from my brother

I did not mean to post that so soon but what I meant to say is every single day I can count on a call from my brother. We talked to one another almost everyday and we both look forward to it because we always had something to say. We both loved to talk so we would always wait forever for one of us to finish talking. He might have been my younger brother but he always had a lot of wisdom and very helpful advice when needed. He was always there for me. I cannot picture a single day without having my brother my best friend to talk to. I miss him so bad but I will be talking to him in my prayers..
