“ Jamie, I haven't got to see that often these last few years, but I wish I would have. you were always so funny and could always make people laugh, I'm just glad I got the chance of knowing you and having you in my life. There are so many things that will remind me of you, Prince of course, bowling, Bray burger, our trip to six flags. But I know you are ok and you are in a great place, and now you can always be there for people, for everyone.

“ Poor Jamie Poor Jamie was teased because he REALLY loved Prince- but grown men and women are scrambling for purple ties and clothes to wear in tribute. Poor Jamie did not have a house- but he had a family who loved him and made sure he was always had a home. Poor Jamie got 'stuck' caring for his father when he was sick- but they used that time to grow closer than they ever had been before. Poor Jamie did not drive a fancy car- but he gratefully drove his dad's truck and thought of it as a way to stay connected to him. Poor Jamie droppe dout of school- but he was smart enough to know the value of a sympathetic ear and an encouraging word so he ALWAYS took time to listen to your problems and encourage your dreams. Poor Jamie suffered from illnesses- but he NEVER let that keep him from participating in holiday gatherings or special events because he loved his family that much. Poor Jamie had a wife that he was separated from- but his phone records tell us that they continued to be a big part of each others lives and one of his last thoughts was an expression of concern for her. Poor Jamie had daughters he had no legal claim to- but they staked their claim on his heart the moment they came into his life and he WAS a true father because he loved and cared for them every moment since and will ALWAYS be their DAD! Poor Jamie would often babysit for his neices and nephews to contribute to his room and board- but our children loved him not only as an Uncle but as a friend, a good friend, a BEST FRIEND! Poor Jamie did not have life insurance- but his proud family gratefully accepted help when offered to provide his services because he deserved no less. Poor Jamie did not attend church regularly- but he had faith in God and knew that when this day came, he would be in Heaven with those who had gone before who would be there to welcome him Home and reap the rewards of and everlasting life. Poor Jamie did not leave behind a lot of things to be packed up or passed around- but he TOOK pieces of so many hearts that we can't imagine life without him. We should all be that POOR!
