“ We used to play Playstation 2 in your Detroit house and loved to eat the riblet TV dinners. Every year you'd take me to see the Christmas lights over by the Garden City house. We were both addicted to Mountain Dew, computer games, and food. You always wanted to take me hiking, but I was a lazy little shit. I remember you loved to teach people new things if they were willing to listen. You loved to joke, but I sometimes seemed to take it too far. You would pick me up in your Semi-truck in the Tim Horton's parking lot at 8 and Hoover across the street from my Grandma Helen's house. We used to cut a shit ton of lawns together. You were a hard worker, but in short bursts. Sometimes I meet people that remind me of you, and those are the best moments. I want to tell those people how significant they are, but I'm sure they won't understand. I still like to do your trick of winding up one arm and punching the person with the other arm. As a matter of fact, nobody did your punch sound effect or Beavis and Buttthead impressions quite as well as you. You were crafty and clever, sometimes in illegal ways, but nevertheless, talented. Sometimes I question if I ever knew you truly, because there was a side that you never showed; not sure what it was, but I know it was there. I remember when my buddy hacked my facebook and changed my password you wrote him a nasty letter demanding he changed it back! Thanks for that, that was awesome. I remember getting my first golf set with you at Aldi shopping mart for 60 bucks. I also remember when any store clerk wouldn't accept your damn coupon or give you the discount, you would flip a shit. Dynasty Warriors was our first game that we really bonded over. We used to always get the Big Gulp refills in our 64 oz speedway mugs.

-Yours Truly. Love ya, Dad.

“ Im truly sorry to hear about your lost. Jeremy will definitely be missed by so many. One thing that helps me deal or cope with losing a loved one is the scripture John 5:28,29. It states, " Do not marvel at this, because the hour is coming in which all those in the memorial tombs will hear his voice and come out, those who did good things to a resurrection of life....." Soon we will be able to see Jeremy again because God (Jehovah) promises a resurrection hope. I hope this gives some comfort.
