

Joan M. Smith

November 5, 1931 - February 3, 2009

Joan was born to Thomas and Mary (Buckley) Maloney in Detroit, Michigan on November 5, 1931, the youngest of 3 children. She completed high school and later married Mr. Charles Lewis Gallagher. They had three sons, Terry James, Mark Wayne, and Craig Allan Gallagher. Joan worked as a bookkeeper for several years and then married Mr. Edgar Smith, her second husband of 24 years. Her second husband Edgar, Sister Patricia Ann Quip and Brother Edward Maloney preceded her in death. Joan started her real estate career in April 16, 1985 when she joined Real Estate One in their Plymouth office. Her skills as a bookkeeper helped her to establish a thriving career as a sales associate and mentor over the years. She worked diligently to assure that every client understood all aspects of real estate and provided excellent service to establish lasting relationships. When she couldn't handle the rigorous demands of real estate, she worked as a part time front desk administrator for the Plymouth and Westland offices of Real Estate One. When she retired from real estate in 2007, she didn't stay away long because where there is a need, there is Joan. She came back to work for the Livonia office as their part time administrator. Joan is survived by her three sons, a host of friends and Realtors Associates and her dog (Babe), a Bishon Frise', who was truly the light of her life.

“ Joan's easy smile & happy attitude will always be remembered. I ran into Joan just a couple of weeks ago, she had not changed & looked so well. She will be missed by all. Sorry I am out of town & cannot make the services.
