“ Leona was an active member of the Brown Bag Talking Book Discussion at the Taylor Community Library in Taylor, Michigan. She brought lively commentary to many years worth of monthly meetings. Not only did she enjoy books, but was honest in her opinions about them and all sorts of issues discussed in them, often bringing her long life experience to bear. At the same time Leona conveyed appreciation and respect even to those with whom she did not agree. She was proud of her Polish heritage, even speaking the language with another member which cheered him up. If there are book discussions where she is going, I am sure she will find a good one to join.
