“ Lois, Thanks for all the great memories growing up. Such a great friend. I am so sorry we lost touch after you moved. Lots of great times driving your mom crazy and our many, many trips to K-Mart with her. Miss you my friend.

“ I have only known Lois a short time, but she made me feel like we have been friends forever.
If you know Lois you know she is definitely not a morning person. At first not knowing that, I would give her a big hug in the morning to brighten her day. Lo Lo...I sure will miss you.
Here is a BIG hug from me to you.

Love your friend,

“ My dear friend my world will never be the same without you. We worked together side by side and we shared so many wonderful times. You were my mentor and you taught me everything with such patience no matter how many times I would ask you the same question. I will never forget that morning when I walked into work and found out that they sat me next to you.....I said to myself this woman is going to chew me up and spit me out! Boy did you prove me wrong! We formed a bond and you will always be forever in my heart. I love you Lois ❤️

“ What can I say about my cousin, Lois? So many fun memories growing up with her. I remember spending the night over her house and just being goofy and laughing. She had such an infectious laugh and you always wanted to make her laugh, because she made you laugh, until your cheeks hurt. I remember once in junior high, I was up in the balcony doing gymnastics and all of a sudden I heard, something that sounded like someone won it big at the casino. I looked over the balcony and there was Lois, not in her gym clothes, but wearing jeans. She had done a cartwheel and there must have been five dollars in change that came out of her pockets. There was change everywhere. We had a good laugh over that one. I remember my sister, Lois and I going to a restaurant, back in the 70"s. There was a juke box on the tables and Lois put money in and picked "Black Betty, by Ram Jam. She sang the song word for word, kinda loud. We were crying, we were laughing so hard. She had such a big heart too. She did the payroll for the company that I worked for. I was pretty stressed with the job and she was always there to listen. This past July my parents had their annual BBQ. I had heard that she might not be there because the dialysis was kicking her butt. I emailed her and told her I would love to see her there, but I totally understood. Even though I know she wasn't up to par, she showed up. I'm so glad she did and we had a chance to catch up. Even though we didn't see each other often, I sure cherish the memories and times we did. Love you cousin/friend!

“ I'm just so shocked and saddened by this news. Lois and I always had so much fun together working at AccessPoint. I loved making her laugh. I would call her at her desk and ask her to move my car closer to the door so I didn't have to go out in the rain or snow, and she would just laugh and laugh. Just last night, I found the recipe she gave me for the famous Oreo balls. I always begged her to make them around the holidays and she would, even though she said it was a pain in the butt and she hated it. SO MANY wonderful memories with her. I just can't believe she is gone. She will be missed by so many.

“Lois is my first cousin and only three months older than I am. We grew up together, spent holidays together, spent nights over each others houses, went to high school together, and graduated together. She wasn't always aware of how funny she was, and sometimes at no fault of her own. Growing up, she was cute as a button, but skinny, scrawny, and kind of clumsy. No, a lot clumsy. She would hit both sides of the opening of a doorway before making it through, and what she would trip over, we never knew. She was kind-hearted and easy going. Her laughter made you laugh. And, if there were difficulties in her life, especially growing up, you would never know it. She took things in stride. I will miss you, Lois, but I know you are an angel now and you are surrounded by loved ones and live in the presence of our Father. May you rest in peace. Love always, your cousin, Donna.
