“ We really blew it Louise, why we couldn't talk to each other and let our marriage fail for years? On my part of all my failures i hope you forgive me. I've started a new relationship and love her deeply, we are ingaged and it has started some anger/ jeliously on your family side and won't talk to me no more. They were good for shit anyway, non of them ever helped you but stick their nose in our private life and make it worse, like Dawn for one! Stan and Louis never did shit for your dad and got 400k plus money from the house and didn't give you a dime. If they did i think you'd still be alive. Lack of money can really hit a person with depression bad to the breaking point. Same with the Turcotte's! Evil. If you LaMarra's are reading this i hope you choke on that money and as far as my love in Berlin i hope we have a beautiful future i deserve it, all the years i went through being a outcast and lonley in my soul dealing with my kids and their dope addiction. Brandon was the only good one. Kenny was/is sick so i can't blaim him for all on his part. We should of never had kids! They did nothing but cause us misery after their childhood, except Brandon. You would be proud of him he's doing good and doesn't do drugs or smoke or drink, he's gonna be a service man soon in the Marines! So my new love (4 years almost) we don't see each other a lot at the moment becuase we live in different countries and we don't have much money, Brandon and i live in a moble home and i don't make much money at my job, plus now there's a plaque sickining the world and i can't see my fiancee the flights are closed to Europe at the moment. I hope i have your blessings and hope you are at peace. I will never forget we had some beautiful times together, you were my best friend for years, yes some really good years but not long lasting and our family just fell apart. God bless you and i didn't mean to get so angry after all this time still 4-15-2020) but i am lonely and never forget what your family did and our girls and their drugs! Rest in peace and we'll see each other soon.
Love Ken
