“ Marcy and Ray were neighbors for a decade and friends (correction: my family for decades). After I moved from Plymouth I missed them so much that once every few weeks I would meet them for lunch at a Chinese Restutant in Levonia. Marcy and Ray liked to have lunch just around 11:30-12:00. So, that made us be the first patrons in the Restutant. She liked their sweet and soure soup, the Salmon. But she loved their ice-cream. I think I am going to that Restutant tomorrow and have the soup, salmon, and ice-cream in remembrance of our periodic lunches together. Being with them for an hour revived my faith in inherent goodness of people!
