“ *Mike and I worked together for many years at ABC, from the time he was a salesman at the Southgate store in 1985, and throughout the next 30 years. He was a great salesman, and more importantly, a great person. Mike had a great wit. He told me once that he loved selling the memory foam mattresses, because every time he sat on one, he remembered a guy that owed him ten bucks. I would enjoy watching him on the sales floor. He was an artist with the customer. God is with you now Mike.

“ Funny story. We went to dinner with Mike and Liz to a new restaurant opened by heart doctors from the neighboring hospital. As you know, Mike had a hearty appetite. He ordered lamb chops. When the food came it was just two tiny chops on a huge plate. The waitress asked if she could bring anything else. Mike quickly responded, "yeah, a baloney sandwich!" We all laughed, went back to his house and ordered a pizza.
