I began pursuing classical piano studies with the esteemed Mrs Agnes Dikeman, whom taught all she knew to me, over many years as a young child, continuing through high school years. Agnes arranged for my piano studies to continue with Nadia Marks. I will forever remain grateful for my learning music from these 2 women. Nadia's studio featured two baby grands nestled one into the other via their angular ends. When Nadia and I performed duets, the sound produced was exquisite; additionally, we had such fun playing together. Nadia was a serious task-master: again though, her stance greatly increased my ability to develop into a professional classical pianist. I carried through what these 2 women taught me by teaching private lessons and further teaching piano at Northwestern Michigan College. I learned late of Nadia's passing; yet she will forever remain in my heart, memories and music. I cannot emphasize enough, the absolute significance Agnes and Nadia played in my life. Their presence in my heart, soul, and through the sounds of the music will forever be illustrated in the woman whom I have since developed. My most grateful thanks to these two most capable, caring and loving of fantastic pianists and teachers. My love to them both, Cynthia D. Lewko-Vermetten

“ Just found out of her passing. Sorry I did not know but she was a very influential piano teacher of mine. Her late husband was my clarinet instructor. Both, wonderful people, Anton was a joy to all. Now, all have reunited in eternity. R.I.P.
