“ I remember the day you called me to tell me about the diagnosis - Cancer is so evil. But your concern was for your sons, and wanting to be sure that Jordan would be able to continue doing what he loved...aah the power of music. Some days when we talked it was from the hospital - so glad you reached out to me after a few years of not being in touch...lives move in different directions, but that doesn't mean we stop supporting each other. So many people cared about your family, even people who did not know you, so amazing! I know you were so thankful that we live in such a generous and supportive community. You inspired me, Nancy - your grace, grit, perseverance. May you rest in peace. - Lisa Howard
