“ Soldier; I don't know you personally, but I know you professionally. You put on the uniform, you stood inspection, you knew the pressure of "Mission first"....you've ditched that used body, and know you're free to move around and look up some of your fellow Soldiers...don't worry, the ones left back will catch up later; for now, pull up a footlocker and reacquaint yourself with the others who made the same journey. By the way; somethings never change...you got K.P. tonite!! Rest easy, all is secure. Welcome home.
