“ Im truly sorry to hear about your lost. Shirley will definitely be missed by so many. One thing that helps me deal or cope with loosing a loved one is the scripture John 5:28,29. It stats " Do not marvel at this, because the hour is coming in which all those in the memorial tombs will hear his voice and come out, those who did good things to a resurrection of life, those who practiced vile things to a resurrection of judgment." Soon we will be able to see Shirley again because God (Jehovah) promises a resurrection hope. Also if you notice that it uses the term "memorial tomb" and not [Grave] which means Gods memory. Shirley seemed like a really nice lady, a person that God will definitely remember. I hope this gives some comfort. Dion R (Truth.1914@yahoo.com)

“ Ron: Please accept our deepest sympathy on the loss of your wonderful Shirley. We know how much you must be hurting and are in our prayers. Unfortunately we will be unable to attend her funeral services. You probably already know that our niece Lisa Maher died on Monday and that her funeral services are also on Friday morning. You and your family will be in our thoughts and prayers.

“ Dear Ron, So sorry to hear of your tremendous loss. You have both been wonderful neighbors . I have always enjoyed you walking the dog. I remember when Shirley had her stroke and Maddie and I made muffins and brought them down. I remember fondly the efforts you both put into the "court block party". I know your loss is so great, Ron. Please remember your friends and neighbors have you and all your family in our thoughts and prayers.

“ Carrie, Craig, Chase & Family, What a beautiful woman your mother, wife was. Carrie, when I saw her pictures in your wedding photos, I remarked to you over and over again how lovely she was and how much I loved her dress- a woman after my own heart. I am so sorry that you have lost this special woman in your lives but know now that she is home and she is happy and healthy and complete in a way we never will be here on this earth. She is in the presence of her loving Father. How blessed you are Mr. McGinnis, to have found and loved the love of your life as so few of us have that privilege in this life and to have called her your very best friend. God bless you all now as you begin your journey through the grief and the healing. ..and as Carrie always says much peace and love to you all. Jody and David Herwick and boys
