

Shirley Delores Trotter

November 28, 1950 - February 27, 2025

Shirley Delores Trotter, a beloved soul known for her warmth, humor, and deep care for others, passed away on February 27, 2025, following a sudden decline in her health. She was 74 years old.

Born on November 28, 1950, to William Trotter and Rose White, Shirley's life was one of boundless love and service. She brought joy and light to everyone she met, with a heart that made everyone feel special and valued.

Shirley's professional life spanned nearly 50 years as an international gate agent for Delta Airlines in Atlanta, Georgia, where she became a cherished member of the Delta family. Her kindness and dedication to her work touched many, and her colleagues will always remember her with fondness.

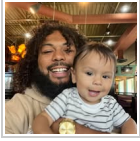

While Shirley never had children of her own, she was a devoted great aunt and played a special role in the lives of Shane Trotter and Trey Trotter, whom she loved like her own grandchildren. Her passing leaves a deep void in their hearts, but they take comfort in the many happy memories she leaves behind.

A celebration of Shirley's remarkable life will be held at a future date at her home in Canton, Michigan. She will forever be remembered for her laughter, her generosity, and the immeasurable love she shared with those lucky enough to know her.

“ I was heartbroken to hear that our dear Shirley has passed. Shirley was truly one of a kind—the nicest person with a bit of a mischievous side. We were friends and coworkers, both big fans of the series The Walking Dead. For two consecutive years, we attended the convention together and had an incredible time. She affectionately called my daughter Sarah “baby girl,” and they always ensured I pushed her in a wheelchair to cut through lines. We had so much fun, and I’ll never forget the moments we shared. At work, we also enjoyed ourselves, even though she often teased me for being too nice. Our discussions were always filled with laughter. She will be forever missed.

I was surprised and saddened to hear of the passing of Shirley Trotter. I worked with her several years at Delta Air Lines. She was always kind to me. What I like about her most was she was truthful and honest. She did not sugar coat how she felt. I respected that. She will be truly missed.
