“ Dear Theresa(Tessa)
My fondest memory of our friendship is when we worked at Pearson with alternative education students . There were a couple of students giving you a rough time, and I told them you weren't just any teacher but a real Russian “contessa” who had left Russia during a political upheaval and that you were a Royal and to treat you with respect. That day-over 25 years ago- you became “Tessa” to me- short for Contessa. I have called you Tessa ever since . I will miss you very much - the lunches at Connor's and all the laughter(such great medicine) . Thank you for your loyalty and generosity . I love you friend.

“Matthew 5:4.” Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted.”

Thank you Lord for your promise as we, Theresa’s friends, mourn the passing of our sweet friend.

As we rekindle past memories over several years of friendship we all feel the same. Theresa’s wonderful laughter, her sweet smile, and her way of just enjoying life was so contagious: you couldn’t help but join in to the fun she had to share. Whether it be a great gab secession, an exciting game, a special cruise, or a casino trip, or even a fun time just pretending to be models trying on clothes, you could depend on her to make the time joyous and memorable. And those crazy nails certainly played a really big role in her fun loving personality.

She radiated such a generous, kind heart; always giving of herself to help. A thoughtful word or a warm prayer were just a couple of her solutions in making the situation a little more tolerable

Theresa’s much appreciated talent was how she could turn old greeting cards into beautiful score cards for our Pinochle Card Club. As a teacher this was probably one of many crafty ideas she shared with her students.

The many stories she shared of her teaching days were so awesome. Her personal interest in each individual child showed us how much she loved the kids and her profession.

These and many more positive traits of Theresa came from her heart; a heart that cherished the love of God, life, friends and family. We will surely miss you dear friend but we know you are in good hands and we will meet again.

*Love You Always
