“ I still think about you every day, my Deda. You're always on my mind. I see so much of you in myself, in the way I carry myself, in the empathy I feel for others, especially towards animals. I'm grateful to have inherited that part of you. I miss our conversations more than I can say. Sometimes I catch myself speaking into the air, hoping that somehow, you can still hear me.

Winter has passed, but it was one of the darkest seasons I've ever lived through. It felt so cold and dark without your light. I hope you're with Unkie now, and with my little mice. I'm doing my best to find a cure, so no one else has to suffer the way you did. It's hard to work knowing that i lost one of my biggest supporters. I feel like i never said it enough but I love you my deda
