“ He was always clowning in the super market. One time he walked over to the meat section and farted then stood back and watched the people pick up the meat and smell the packages to see if it was bad.

“ Although I have many wonderful memories of Bill, one that continues to make me giggle is one time while Halloween camping he had a fart machine that he put in his pocket and would walk up to people and let it rip! He and I had the best laugh as people would shriek and walk away from him. He had the best sense of humor and liked to have fun, I will forever miss him!

Thoughts and prayers to all.
